The convention reassembled at 2 p.m., in the hall of the house of the representatives, the house having adjourned till tomorrow, to allow the convention the use of the hall. The body of the hall was completely filled with delegates, while the galleries were crowded with spectators, including many members to take great interest in the proceedings. The committee on credentials reported that 73 of 102 counties of the state were represented by 291 delegates. The combe applied, and in this connection took occasion to say that he believed the legisla-

The court had no right to go behind that action, and decide upon its correctness. What he wanted to see, was the law passed by the legislature which would bring the question directly before the courts. He believed it was for the interest of the people and railroad to have speedy decision of the matter, and if the courts decide that the legislature had the right, then the railroads must submit; if they decided against it, the people must either settle down to things as they are now; [Cries; "no, we won't; no, never;"] or, continued the governor, obtain an amendment to the constitution of the United States, which will secure the desired object. This was an undoubted right of the people which had often been exercised, and could be again. In conclusion to faithfully, without fear, favor an affection and go forward in the discharge of all duty, and leave the results to the considerate judgement of the people of the state. Ex Governoor Palmer then appeared by invitation, and made a short speech. He considered the fact that the farmers had come together in such numbers to seek a remedy from evils

GERS LOST.

A LIST OF THE OFFICERS SAVED.

THE ILL-PATED STEAMSHIP, ATLANTIC. NEW YORK, April 2 .- People who had friends on board the ill-fated steamer Atlantic, crowded the office of the White Star line this morning, hoping to learn the names of survivors, but as no list had been received information could not be given them. The terrible disaster is the only topic of conversation and a full investigation is demanded by the public, and the people desire that the responsibility of the disaster be fixed on the proper parties. The White Star company last evening, on receiving news of the disaster, dispatched an agent to relieve the survivors, and requested him to telegraph their names to important points. Two other agents left for Halifax this morning to forward the survivors to their destination. The steamship City of Monsembles in the state house, the court room | treal, which sailed the same day as the Atlantic, March 20, has duplicate lists of the passengers in the cabin and steerage. She is expected to-day. The company says the catastrophe was caused by mistaking the lights on the coast, and do not attach any blame to the officers of the vessel. Captain Williams was an experienced and exellent seaman. He was about twelve years in the trans Atlantic trade, and with the White Star line since its organization. At one time he commanded the steamship Colorado, which after he retired from her was sunk by a collision. The company have not received any intelligence of the number of passengers lost. Those rescued are enroute to Halifax, but as the journey will have to be accomplished in wagons, they are not expected to arrive there before five o'clock this evening. The

A PASSENGER'S STATEMENT. A steerage passenger makes the following statement: "I turned into my berth about eleven o'clock Monday night; the night was dark, but starlight; the weather fine. I knew the ship was going into Halifax for coal; the last I remembered was that two bells struck one o'clock, I then went to sleep and woke up with a shock, and remarked to my mate that there goes the anchor; I thought of course we were safe in Halifax harbor, but as soon as the made the second plunge, I said good God ashore, with that we got up and dressed, the companionway was thronged with lower steerage passengers; there we remained until after day light; the ship had my future period. Why waste your money and health in try-ing every medicine you hear of, when Thompson's Fever and Ague Powders have never failed to cure the Chills in any case.

REASONS WHY THEY ONLY SHOULD BE USED.

Their reputation is established. Thousands of testimonials have been received, showing that these powders have performed miracles in curing cases of long standing, many of them considered hopeless.

There is no risk in taking them. They contain nothing injurious, and, therefore, none of the lingering diseases so often the result of the many nostrums of the day. Physicians recommend them as superior to quinine or any other known remedy, for they leave the system in a healthy state, and the patient beyond the probability of a relapse.

ART DEPARTMENT.

Notwithstanding the increase in the price of subscription last fall, when the Aldine assumed its present noble proportions and representative character, the edition will more than double the past year; proving that the American public appreciate a sincere effort in the cause of Art. The publishers anxious to justify the ready confidence thus demonstrated, have exerted themselves to the utmost to develop and improve the work; and the plans for the coming year, as unfolded by the month y issues, will as tonish and delight even the most sanguine friends of the Aldine.

The Aldine will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success, and greatest general interest; avoiding such as have become familiar, through photograph, or copies of any kind.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1873, will reproduce four of John S. Davis' inimitable child-sketches, appropriate to the four seasons. These plates, appearing in the issues for January, April, July, and October, would be alone worth the price of a year's subscription.

PREMIUM CHROMOS FOR 1878.

Every subscriber to the Aidine, who pay in advance for the year 1873, will receive, without additional charge, a pair of beautiful oil chromos, after J. J. Hill, the eminent English painter. The pictures, entitle? "The Village Belle," and "Crossing the Moor," are 14x20 inches—are printed from 25 different plates, requiring 25 impressions and tints to perfect each picture. The same chromos are sold for $30 per pair, in the art stores. As it is the determination of its conductors te keep the Aidine out of the reach of competition in every department, the chromos will be found shead of any that can be offered by other periodicals. Every subscriber will receive a certificate, over the signature of the publishers, guaranteeing that the chromos delivered shall be equal to the samples furnished the agent, or the money will be refunded. The distribution of pictures of this grades free to the subscribers to a five dollar periodical, will mark an epoch in the history of Art and, considering the unprecedented cheapness of the price for The Aidine itself, the marvel falls little short of a miracle, even to those best acquainted with the achievements of inventive genius and improved mechanical appliances. (For Illustrations of these chromos, see November is sue of the Aidine.)

THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT will continue under the care of Mr. Richard Henry Stoddard, assisted by the best writers and poets of the day, who will strive to have the literature of the Aldine always in keep-ing with its artistic attractions.

TERMS. $5 per anum, in advance, with Oil ChroThe Aldine will, hereafter, be obtainable

MEETING OF THE ILLINOIS STATE FARMER'S ASSO-CIATION AT SPRING-

SYNOPSIS OF THE ADDRESS OF GOV. BEVERIDGE.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., April 2 .- The farmers convention of this state met at the court house here at 10 o'clock this morning. Nearly all the counties in the northern and central part of the state, and many of the southern part are represented. Hon. Wm. Smith, ex-speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, was elected temporary president. He said the state as they cannot fall to understand. Various business committees were apppointed, and wile they were preparing their reports, several speeches were made. D. W. Dame, a prominent farmer of Carroll county, and ex-member of the executive committee, of the state organization of farmers, addressed the convention, detailing some of the grievances of farmers, and alleged impositions practiced upon them, not only by railroads, but by other corporations and monopolies, and urging the ability of farmers to relieve themselves by concerted united action, referring to a statement which had been made, that the farmer's movement had an underlaying political object, he declared that if that was so, there was an excellent precedent for the laying aside of minor political lesues, when a great principle affecting the welfare of the entire people was at stake. He believed that the people who were suffering from the appressice of monopolies would not permit the cry of politics to swerve them from their purpose. Members of the legislature should take the responsibility of passing the legislation necessary in behalf of farmers upon their own shoulders, and not throw it upon the farmers or on this convention. At 12 o'clock a recess was taken till two p.m., when the convention reas-ture now in session had given their best the legislature, who appeared mittee on permanent organization reported for president, D. W. Davis; for vice presidents from the state at large, W. C. Flagg and Enos Smith, with an additional vice presidents from each congressional district. The report of the committee on resolutions was called for, but not being ready, Gov. Beveredge was invited to address the convention, which he proceeded to do, He referred to the various interests in existence in the state, and which combined made up its prosperity, all of their interest demanded and should have the nourishing care of the state, and no one crippled or oppressed for the benefit of the other. He recognized the importance to the state of farming interests, the green r indeed of all; but railroad interests should not be crippled; the interests of farmers and railroads were really closely identified, and one could not flourish without the other. He, however, recognized the fact that railroads had been, and were now exacting from the farmer an extortionate price in freights, thus crippling the best interests of the country, and there must be a remedy for these rates; but he cautioned the people not to make war upon railroads to abolish them; but simply to put them under the proper control of the people, through their representative. [Applause and cries of "that's all we want, that's it, we want more roads."] The governor then proceeded to the consideration of the proper remedy to efforts to a salution of this question; he believed they were honestly trying to serve the people in this matter, but it was a difficult to manage; referring to the decision of the courts, that the charter of railroads were not contracts between the people and the corporations. He argued against the correctness of the propositions, and expressed his belief that these charters were simply grants of power to the corporators to build the road, and were consequently subject to the control of the legislature, and the time is coming
